Sessions

Learning Pathways

What is the most route to organisational Best Practice?

The organisation that can most effectively execute projects will achieve the greatest success. In this session we will walk you through creating a structured project management training and certification pathway, compare different certification options (such as PRINCE2 and PMP) whilst providing an update on some of the latest best practices.

Microsoft EPM 2010

Microsoft has delivered new functionality for a new era in project management. How will you make it work for your organisation?

EPM has the potential to revolutionise activity within organisations. However, companies often underestimate the work involved and complexity of an EPM deployment and teams get distracted by the challenges of new software instead of adopting a consistent and sustainable way for people to plan, manage and execute projects. This session shows you how to achieve an effective deployment and to drive better organisational outcomes.

Keynote Speakers

Senior executives from Media Monitors and Canon will be delivering keynote presentations on how these organisations have developed strategic project management capabilities.

Sustainable

Dissecting the Standish CHAOS Report; What are the lessons for business leaders?

According to the 2009 Standish Report project failure rates are at a 10 year high. Why is it happening? How can an organisation maintain its "business-as-usual" activities while driving the change agenda? In this session we will be presenting a holistic organisational framework for planning and executing change. No doubt some points will be hotly debated!

Accountability

How assessments & assurance can reduce business risk, drive accountability and support lower cost delivery.

The early identification of problems in a project or programme can dramatically improve its outcome. However, most organisations lack the tools and knowledge to effectively conduct assessments. Consequently these vital activities are pushed aside, often performed at a stage when it is too late to make a difference. This session will give you the insights needed to regain control.
